Inspired by volcanoes, the Terragen fireplace helps relieve the stresses of the day as well as providing a versatile and attractive sculptural object.

Fireplaces offer a cosy ambience in the comfort of your own home, warming and relaxing you as you watch the dancing flames. Unlike standard open fires, Flying Cavalries' creations are compact and mobile, just like any other piece of furniture, and so can be positioned literally anywhere around the house.

The company consists of a dedicated pair of designers, one of whom is an architect and the other a product designer. Previously Flying Cavalries have focused on interior design, and have for many years created custom designed products for clients. The team's main aim has always been to create extraordinary items and they embrace and use cutting edge technologies in their design process. They have always taken their ecological responsibilities seriously, have always used, and continue to use, eco-friendly and natural materials in their projects.

The fireplaces are chimney-free and there is no need for a flue or for bearing walls either. In addition to being functional, practical, and beautiful, they are also environmentally friendly: running on an eco-friendly bioethanol liquid fuel which is both easy and safe to use.

Our featured model, 'Terragen' has colours that go from red and melt into grey. The coloured layering that distinguishes and makes this fireplace special can be seen both from the top-view of the fireplace as well as from the side. It will not only be a decorative focal point in your home but also a functional and stylish coffee table to use everyday and a smokeless fireplace to keep you warm in winter. •
